COUNT ONE

(Conspiracy to Commit Securities Fraud)

The Grand Jury charges:

Relevant Entities and Individuals

1. At all times relevant to this Indictment, Innate Immunotherapeutics Limited ("Innate") was a biotechnology company with its headquarters in Sydney, Australia and offices in Auckland, New Zealand. Innate's stock traded on the Australian Securities Exchange ("ASX") under the ticker "IIL," and on the United States over-the-counter ("OTC") market under the ticker "INNMF."

2. Innate's primary business was the research and development of a drug called MIS416, which was intended to treat Secondary Progressive Multiple Sclerosis ("SPMS"). In or about June 2017, Innate completed MIS416's Phase 2B drug trial (the "Drug Trial"), which was meant to determine the drug's clinical efficacy in treating SPMS. Because there were few or no alternative treatments for SPMS, MIS416 had the potential to be enormously profitable if the Drug Trial was successful. MIS416, however, failed the Drug Trial. The public announcement of these results caused the stock price of Innate to drop by 92%.

3. At all times relevant to this Indictment, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, was a Congressman representing the 27th District of New York. CHRISTOPHER COLLINS was also a member of Innate's Board of Directors and was one of Innate's largest shareholders, holding approximately 16.8% of its stock. In his capacity as a member of Innate's Board of Directors, Collins regularly had access to material, nonpublic information, including about MIS416 and the Drug Trial.

4. CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, was the son of CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant. At all times relevant to this Indictment, CAMERON COLLINS was in a relationship with (and subsequently became engaged to be married to) a co-conspirator not named as a defendant herein ("CC-1"). At times relevant to this Indictment, and as CHRISTOPHER COLLINS well knew, CAMERON COLLINS was also a significant shareholder in Innate, owning approximately 2.3% of its shares.

5. At all times relevant to this Indictment, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, was the father of CC-1. He was also married to another co-conspirator not named as a defendant herein ("CC-2") and was the brother of two co-conspirators not named as defendants herein ("CC-3" and "CC-4"). In addition, ZARSKY was longstanding friends with a Florida-based financial advisor, a co-conspirator not named as a defendant herein ("CC-5").

6. At all times relevant to this Indictment, CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, and CC-1 were friends with another co-conspirator not named as a defendant herein ("CC-6").

7. At times relevant to this Indictment, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, CC-1, CC-2, CC-3, CC-4, CC-5, and CC-6 all held Innate stock. ZARSKY, CC-1, CC-2, and CC-6 purchased Innate stock based in part on the recommendation of CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant. CC-3, CC-4, and CC-5 purchased Innate stock based in part on the recommendation of ZARSKY.

The Confidentiality Policy and Prohibition on Insider Trading

8. At all times relevant to this Indictment, Innate maintained a corporate policy entitled, "Securities Trading Policy." This policy provided, in part, that If a Designated Person possesses "inside information" in relation to a company, the person must not:

(i) Deal in any securities of such company in any way; nor

(ii) Directly or indirectly communicate the information, or cause the information to be communicated, to another person if the person knows, or ought reasonable to know, that the other person would, or would be likely to, deal in any securities of such company in any way or procure a third person to deal in any securities of such company in any way.

The Securities Trading Policy further defined the term "Designated Person" to include "all directors, executives, employees, contractors, consultants and advisors of the Company and its subsidiaries." The term "inside information" was defined to include, in part, information that was "not generally available" and that "a reasonable person would expect [] to have a material effect on the price or value" of Innate's stock.

9. At all times relevant to this Indictment, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, was subject to the terms of Innate's Securities Trading Policy by virtue of his position as a member of Innate's Board of Directors.

Overview of the Scheme to Defraud

10. In or about June 2017, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, violated the duties he owed to Innate by passing material, nonpublic information regarding the Drug Trial results to his son, CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, so that CAMERON COLLINS could use that information to make timely trades in Innate stock and tip others. CAMERON COLLINS traded on the inside information and passed it to STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, as well as to CC-1, CC-2, and CC-6, so that they could utilize the information for the same purpose. ZARSKY, in turn, traded on the information and used it to tip CC-3, CC-4, and CC-5, so that they too could engage in timely trades in Innate stock. All of the trades preceded the public release of the negative Drug Trial results, and were timed to avoid losses that they would have suffered once that news became public.

11. In total, these trades allowed CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, CAMERON COLLINS, and STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendants, and CC-1 through CC-6, to avoid over $768,000 in losses that they would have otherwise incurred if they had sold their stock in Innate after the Drug Trial results became public.

The Drug Trial Results

12. In or about October 2014, Innate initiated a Phase 2B clinical trial of its primary drug, MIS416. The Drug Trial was "blinded," meaning that neither the administrators of the Drug Trial nor Innate's leadership would know or be able to determine the results of the Drug Trial until it was completed, after which point data collected during the course of the Drug Trial would be unblinded and analyzed. Successful completion of the Drug Trial was a necessary prerequisite to the commercialization of MIS416. Because Innate had no other significant products in development, its stock price was tied to the success of MIS416.

13. The Drug Trial was widely expected to be completed around the Summer of 2017. On or about April 20, 2017, for example, Innate issued a press release stating that "[a] final report on the outcomes of the [Drug Trial] should be available in late August or during September" of that year, but that "[i]nitial 'topline' data may become available prior to the release of this report and if so, will be released to the market at that time." Further, on or about June 9, 2017, Innate's Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") sent various individuals, including CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, an email stating that "the delivery date for [the] review and 'verdict'" of the Drug Trial "will [] occur at COB on US Thursday June 22nd."

14. As the summer progressed, individuals within Innate remained optimistic that the Drug Trial results would be positive. As late as June 21, 2017, for example, Innate announced in a press release that it had received clearance from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to open an Investigational New Drug ("IND") application (the "FDA Announcement"). The IND process is an early step in securing approval for a drug in the United States, and is intended to help ensure that subsequent trials will be designed in a manner to pass FDA scrutiny. Innate's press release described this approval as "a further important milestone in the ongoing clinical development of the Company's lead drug candidate MIS416."

15. The initial Drug Trial results were made available by trial administrators to Innate's CEO on June 22, 2017. These results established that MIS416 lacked therapeutic value in the treatment of SPMS. The results were not publicly released at that time.

16. On the night of June 22, 2017, which was the morning of June 23, 2017 in Australia, Innate issued a press release stating, in substance and in part, that Innate had requested that the ASX halt trading in Innate's stock on the ASX "as [Innate] has received results from its Phase 2B trial of MIS416 in patients with secondary progressive multiple sclerosis." The press release further stated that Innate expected the halt to end on June 27, 2017, at which point Innate would announce "the results of the trial."

17. The ASX issued a trading halt in Innate stock that same day. That halt, however, affected only the Australian market for Innate stock, not the U.S. OTC market. The trading halt also did not signal the direction of the MIS416 trial results. To the contrary, the ASX routinely halts trading at a company's request in situations in which the company has become aware of material information, either positive or negative, but is not yet ready to announce that information to the public.

18. On the night of Monday, June 26, 2017, after the U.S. markets had closed, Innate issued a press release publicly stating, in substance and in part, that MIS416 had failed its Drug Trial (the "Public Announcement"). As explained in the press release, MIS416 "did not show clinically meaningful or statistically significant differences in measures of neuromuscular function or patient reported outcomes."

19. Innate's stock price crashed in response to the Public Announcement. On the previous trading day, Monday, June 26, 2017, Innate's stock had closed at approximately $0.455 per share on U.S. OTC market. On or about Tuesday, June 27, 2017, after the Public Announcement, Innate's stock closed at approximately $0.0351 per share, a drop of over 92% in value.

Dissemination of the Drug Trial Results

20. On or about June 22, 2017 at approximately 6:55 PM, Innate's CEO sent an email describing the Drug Trial results to the company's Board of Directors, including CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant. The email explained to Innate's Board of Directors for the first time that the Drug Trial had been a failure. The email began, in part, "I have bad news to report," and continued to explain that "the top line analysis of the 'intent to treat' patient population (ie every subject who was successfully enrolled in the study) would pretty clearly indicate[s] 'clinical failure.'" The email continued, "Top-line 12-month data . . . show no clinically meaningful or statistically significant differences in [outcomes] between MIS416 and placebo," and concluded by stating, "No doubt we will want to consider this extremely bad news . . . ."

21. At the time CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, received this email, he was attending the Congressional Picnic at the White House. At 7:10 PM, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS replied to the email, stating, in part, "Wow. Makes no sense. How are these results even possible???"

22. After responding to the Innate CEO's email at approximately 7:10 PM, the following telephone calls occurred at the following approximate times between CHRISTOPHER COLLINS and CAMERON COLLINS, the defendants:

TIME (Approx.)	FROM	TO	DURATION (Approx.)
7:11:00 PM	Christopher Collins	Cameron Collins	0:00
7:11:23 PM	Christopher Collins	Cameron Collins	0:05
7:14:16 PM	Cameron Collins	Christopher Collins	0:05
7:14:51 PM	Cameron Collins	Christopher Collins	0:05
7:15:27 PM	Cameron Collins	Christopher Collins	0:05
7:15:50 PM	Christopher Collins	Cameron Collins	0:07
7:16:19 PM	Christopher Collins	Cameron Collins	6:08

23. The first six calls were "missed," meaning that the recipient of the call did not answer. During the 6:08 minute call at 7:16:19 PM, however, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, spoke to CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, and told him, in sum and substance, that MIS416 had failed the Drug Trial. CHRISTOPHER COLLINS conveyed this material, nonpublic information to CAMERON COLLINS knowing that it was in breach of his duties to Innate and anticipating that CAMERON COLLINS would use it to trade and tip others.

24. CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, did not trade himself, and his Innate stock ultimately declined by millions of dollars in value when the Drug Trial results were made public on June 26, 2017. As CHRISTOPHER COLLINS well knew, however, he was virtually precluded from trading his own shares for practical and technical reasons. First, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS was already under investigation by the Office of Congressional Ethics ("OCE") in connection with his holdings in, and promotion of, Innate. Indeed, he had been interviewed by OCE personnel on or about June 5, 2017, just 17 days earlier. Second, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS' Innate shares were held in Australia and thus subject to the Australian trading halt. Unlike his son's shares, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS' shares were not held at a U.S. broker where they could be traded in the domestic OTC market. Accordingly, he did not trade his own stock and instead tipped CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant.

Trading by CAMERON COLLINS

25. The U.S. OTC market was closed when CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, learned the negative Drug Trial results from CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, on or about the night of June 22, 2017. The following morning, at approximately 7:42 AM, CAMERON COLLINS placed an online order with his brokerage firm to sell approximately 16,508 shares of Innate on the U.S. OTC market. This order was executed at approximately 9:30 AM, when the U.S. OTC market opened.

26. Later that day, CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, placed approximately 17 additional orders to sell Innate stock. On or about June 26, 2017, the following Monday, CAMERON COLLINS placed approximately 36 additional orders to sell Innate stock. Many of the orders that CAMERON COLLINS placed on June 23, 2017, and June 26, 2017, moreover, occurred after additional discussion with CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant. For example, on Friday, June 23, 2017, at approximately 3:12 PM, CAMERON COLLINS placed a 5:05 minute call to CHRISTOPHER COLLINS. While the two were still on the phone, CAMERON COLLINS placed an online order with his broker to sell approximately 50,000 shares of Innate.

27. In total, CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, sold approximately 1,391,500 shares of Innate stock between the morning of June 23, 2017 and the close of the market on June 26, 2017, when Innate publicly released the Drug Trial results. These sales allowed CAMERON COLLINS to avoid approximately $570,900 in losses.

Trading by Direct Tippees of CAMERON COLLINS

28. After learning the results from CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, on or about the night of June 22, 2017, CAMERON

COLLINS, the defendant, provided the Drug Trial results to at least the following three sets of individuals so that they could trade in advance of the Public Announcement: (1) his current fiancée, CC-1; (2) STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, and ZARSKY's wife, CC-2; and (3) his friend, CC-6. These individuals are discussed below.

Sales by CC-1

29. On or about June 19, 2017 and June 20, 2017, CC-1 purchased approximately 40,464 shares of Innate stock. These purchases preceded the seemingly positive FDA Announcement by just days and were the first purchases of Innate stock in CC-1's brokerage account. Nonetheless, on or about 9:37 AM on June 23, 2017, shortly after the U.S. OTC market opened, CC-1 caused an order to be placed with CC-1's brokerage firm to sell all of CC-1's approximately 40,464 Innate shares. These sales allowed CC-1 to avoid losses of approximately $19,440.

Sales by STEPHEN ZARSKY and CC-2

30. On or about the night of June 22, 2017, after CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, received the negative Drug Trial results from CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, CAMERON COLLINS and CC-1 drove to the home STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, and CC-2 (the "Zarsky Residence"). CAMERON COLLINS and CC-1 arrived at the Zarsky Residence at approximately 9:17 PM, when CC-1 sent a text message to CC-2 stating, in part, "We're here." Once at the Zarsky Residence, CAMERON COLLINS told ZARSKY and CC-2 the following, in substance and in part: that MIS416 had failed the Drug Trial; that he intended to sell his own Innate shares; and that he would allow ZARSKY and CC-2 to sell their Innate shares first so as to avoid depressing Innate's stock price with his own sales beforehand.

31. At approximately 9:34 PM on the night of June 22, 2017, while CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, and CC-1 were still at the Zarsky Residence, CC-2 called her brokerage firm and asked, in substance and in part, to sell all of her Innate shares. A representative from the brokerage firm then walked CC-2 through the process of placing an order to sell her Innate stock online. CC-2 subsequently entered an order online to sell her shares. As a result of this order, approximately 30,250 of CC-2's total holdings of 50,000 shares of Innate stock were sold on the ASX before trading of Innate was halted on the ASX later that night. CC-2 sold the remainder of her shares on the U.S. OTC market the following morning, avoiding a total of approximately $22,600 in losses.

32. At approximately 7:52 AM on the morning of June 23, 2017, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, placed an online order with his brokerage firm to sell all 303,005 of his Innate shares at a limit price of $0.41 per share, well below the prior day's closing price of approximately $0.52 per share. This order was executed when the U.S. OTC market opened at approximately 9:30 AM, and the order was filled at $0.51 per share, allowing ZARSKY to avoid approximately $143,900 in losses.

Sales by CC-6

33. On or about 9:01 AM on June 26, 2017, CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, placed a call to CC-6, which CC-6 did not answer. CC-6 then sent CAMERON COLLINS a text message at 9:02 AM stating, "Sorry, on a conference call right now. Doing a little phone tag - what's going on?" CAMERON COLLINS responded, "Give me a call when you get a free minute." At approximately 9:14 AM, CC-6 called CAMERON COLLINS, and the two had a 51 second conversation. During this conversation, CAMERON COLLINS told CC-6, in substance and in part, that MIS416 had failed the Drug Trial, and that CC-6 should consider selling CC-6's Innate shares (which CC-6 had purchased at an earlier date based in part on CAMERON COLLINS' recommendation).

34. CC-6 subsequently sold all of his Innate shares prior to the Public Announcement, thereby avoiding approximately $680 in losses.

Trading by Direct Tippees of STEPHEN ZARSKY

35. On or about the morning of June 23, 2017, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, provided the negative Drug Trial results that he had learned from CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, and CC-1 to at least the following individuals, among others, or otherwise caused them to trade or attempt to trade in advance of the Public Announcement: (1) his brother, CC-3; (2) his sister, CC-4; and (3) his longstanding friend, CC-5. These individuals are discussed below.

Trading by CC-3

36. At approximately 9:36 AM on June 23, 2017, minutes after he had finished selling his own shares, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, called CC-3. CC-3 did not answer but returned ZARSKY's call at approximately 9:40 AM. During this call, ZARSKY told CC-3, in substance and in part, to sell CC-3's Innate shares.

37. Correctly concluding that STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, had inside information that he had received from the Collins family, CC-3 did not ask questions. At approximately 9:43 AM on June 23, 2017--roughly one minute after CC-3's call with ZARSKY--CC-3 sold all of his Innate shares, avoiding losses of approximately $4,200.

Attempted Trading by CC-4

38. At approximately 7:37 AM and 7:44 AM on the morning of June 23, 2017, STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, sent text messages to CC-4 stating, in part "Call me asap!" and "Call me immediately." ZARSKY and CC-4 subsequently spoke by telephone at approximately 9:47 AM. During this and later calls, ZARSKY told CC-4, in substance and in part, that CC-4 needed to sell her Innate shares and not to ask why. CC-4 attempted to sell her Innate shares after receiving ZARSKY's call, but CC-4's broker was unable to execute CC-4's order.

39. STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, and CC-1 subsequently expressed confusion as to why CC-4 had not traded. For example, the following text-message exchange occurred on or about June 27, 2017:

ZARSKY: [CC-4 and CC-4's spouse] didn't get out but they are not complaining

CC-1: Strange that they didn't

CC-1: Such is life

ZARSKY: Told them when I told [CC-3]

CC-1: Yep

ZARSKY: [CC-3] got out

CC-1: That's that . . . .

ZARSKY: Yes

ZARSKY, moreover, had a similar text-message exchange with CC-3 on or about the same date:

ZARSKY: [CC-4 and CC-4's spouse] never got out even though I told them both right after I spoke with you . . . .

CC-3: They have a broker they couldn't do it right away it was Friday and they couldn't get the guy to do it

ZARSKY: [CC-4] doesn't want to talk about it or hear any numbers again

CC-3: I was able to enter the trade myself

Trading by CC-5

40. At approximately 10:01 AM on June 23, 2017-- approximately 30 minutes after his own sell order had been executed--STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendant, called and spoke with CC-5. During this call, ZARSKY told CC-5, in substance and in part, that CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, had told ZARSKY that MIS416 had failed the Drug Trial. Minutes later, CC-5 sold all of his shares of Innate, avoiding losses of approximately $6,700.

41. STEPHEN ZARSKY also told CC-5, in substance and in part, that CAMERON COLLINS intended to purchase a house so that CAMERON COLLINS would have an ostensible excuse for the timing of his own trades in Innate if he were ever asked about them.

Concealment of Trading

42. After the Public Announcement, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, the defendant, took steps to prevent the public from learning that CAMERON COLLINS, the defendant, had sold significant portions of his Innate stock on or about June 23, 2017 and June 26, 2017, before the Public Announcement. For example, on or about June 28, 2017, one of CHRISTOPHER COLLINS' staff members issued a statement to a local reporter. This statement stated that "Neither Christopher Collins, [nor] his daughter . . . have sold shares prior, during or after Innate's recent stock halt," and that "Cameron Collins has liquidated all his shares after the stock halt was lifted, suffering a substantial financial loss." This statement was written in a manner designed to mislead the public into believing that CAMERON COLLINS had not sold any Innate shares prior to the Public Announcement. As CHRISTOPHER COLLINS explained in an email about press coverage surrounding Innate, "We want this to go away."

Statutory Allegations

43. In or about June 2017, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, CAMERON COLLINS, and STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendants, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly did combine, conspire, confederate, and agree together and with each other to commit an offense against the United States, to wit, securities fraud, in violation of Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) and 78ff, and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.

f. On or about June 26, 2017, CAMERON COLLINS told CC-6, in substance and in part, that MIS416 had failed the Drug Trial so that CC-6 could sell his Innate shares before the Public Announcement.

COUNT NINE

(Conspiracy to Commit Wire Fraud)

The Grand Jury further charges:

48. The allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 42 and 45 of this Indictment are hereby repeated, realleged, and incorporated by reference, as if fully set forth herein.

49. In or about June 2017, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, CAMERON COLLINS, and STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendants, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly combined, conspired, confederated, and agreed together and with each other to commit wire fraud, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343.

50. It was a part and an object of the conspiracy that CHRISTOPHER COLLINS, CAMERON COLLINS, and STEPHEN ZARSKY, the defendants, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly, having devised and intending to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud, and for obtaining money and property by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations, and promises, would and did transmit and cause to be transmitted by means of wire, radio, and television communication in interstate and foreign commerce writings, signs, signals, pictures, and sounds for the purpose of executing such scheme and artifice, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343.

(Title 18, United States Code, Section 1349.)
